Water Conservation—How's Your Water Pressure?

Pay attention to your water bill, and become familiar with your water meter. Use them to track your water use and detect leaks. Listen for drips and leaks around the house. If you notice a change in your water pressure, that could be a sign that you have a leak somewhere in your line. Always report changes in pressure to City Hall.

Your water meter can be a valuable tool in detecting water leaks in and around your home. Know where it is located, and follow this simple process to help determine if there is a leak in your home:

- 1) Make sure no water is running.
- 2) Turn off all faucets and water-consuming appliances.
- 3) Read your water meter. Write down the current reading.
- 4) Read the meter again a few hours later after a time when you haven't used any water. If the meter reading has changed, you have a leak.
